Hi,

I didn't identify any critical issues that justify the overall index being around 56%. While this is still an average score, it is relatively lower than in previous years.

Only 11 out of 27 students responded to the survey, which is not a large enough sample to provide a comprehensive view.

I'd like to address some of the main points raised in the feedback:

Overleaf Usage: While some of you appreciated using Overleaf, others expressed concerns. Please note that it is essential for all reports to follow the required formatting templates strictly. Overleaf is currently the most straightforward way to ensure consistency, so we encourage its use.

Supervisor Response Time: There were concerns about delays in supervisors responding. We understand this and will look into ways to improve communication. However, please remember that supervisors often have multiple commitments, and reviewing or revising thesis work can take time. Patience and planning ahead are essential.

Freedom in Choosing Supervisors: Some students appreciated the flexibility in choosing a supervisor, while others found it challenging. We aim to empower students to find a supervisor whose research interests align with theirs. We provided a List of Supervisors to help guide this process, and it has been a fair and practical approach.

Thank you for your feedback. We'll continue improving while maintaining the course's standards and expectations.

Best regards,
Mohamed
