It was hard to give more individualised attention to the students, especially in terms of providing feedback on assessment due to the high number of students. This meant some students felt neglected.

One student wrote "It would have been nice to have some seminars online where we students discuss the weekly topics and material. I learn a lot from discussions (not only written discussions) and I feel more engaged in the course if I have to prepare myself for an oral discussion." I will consider adding a few discussion session online in the future.
